Nadal seals historic triumph

Rafael Nadal ended Roger Federer's five-year reign as Wimbledon champion by defeating the world No. 1 in a dramatic five-set final on Sunday. Earlier Venus Williams joined Federer on five Wimbledon titles with a straight sets victory over sister Serena in Saturday's women's final.

Nadal became the first player since Bjorn Borg in 1980 to win Roland Garros and Wimbledon in the same year after completing a 64 64 67(5) 67(8) 97 victory in four hours 48 minutes, the longest ever Wimbledon final. The match was twice interrupted due to rain, with Federer saving two match points in the fourth set tiebreak.

Nadal, who is the first Spaniard to win Wimbledon since Manuel Santana in 1966, said: "It's impossible to describe. I'm just very happy. It's unbelievable for me to have the title here at Wimbledon. It's a dream. Always, as a kid, I dreamed of playing here." Federer, previously unbeaten on grass since 2002, described the defeat as his "hardest loss, by far. I was hoping, with the momentum going into the fifth set, that it was going to be enough from my end that I would play a little bit better. But I couldn't play my best when I had to."

Defending champion Venus Williams added the women's singles title to her successes in 2000-01, 2005 and 2007. She recorded her first ever Wimbledon final victory over sister Serena, who had defeated her in the 2002 and 2003 finals. Serena held an early break in both sets but Venus fought back to win 75 64 in one hour 51 minutes. Venus, who still hopes to surpass Martina Navratilova's record of nine Wimbledon titles, said: "It's monumental. I would have been more disappointed not making history than not winning the match, if that makes any sense. Winning this tournament so many times puts you in the stratosphere."

Serena, who suffered her first loss to her sister in a Grand Slam final since the 2001 US Open, said: "I just lost rhythm at the end of the first set and made a lot of errors. I didn't feel tight but I couldn't get the balls in and nothing I was doing seemed to work."

There was some consolation for Serena when she later partnered Venus to a third women's doubles title, defeating Lisa Raymond and Samantha Stosur 62 62 in the final. Stosur went on to win the mixed doubles title, teaming up with Bob Bryan to defeat Mike Bryan and Katarina Srebotnik 75 64 in a match that finished in darkness on Court 1.

Daniel Nestor became the first Canadian to capture a title at Wimbledon, partnering Nenad Zimonjic to win the men's doubles, defeating Jonas Bjorkman and Kevin Ulliyett 76(10) 67(3) 63 63. Victory saw Nestor complete a career doubles Grand Slam while it was the first Grand Slam men's doubles title for Zimonjic, who broke a bone in his left wrist during the semifinals.

Dimitrov and Robson claim Wimbledon Junior titles

Bulgarian Grigor Dimitrov and Laura Robson of Great Britain are the newly crowned junior Wimbledon champions after both clinched victories in front of large crowds on Court 1.

Fourteen-year-old Robson had not dropped a set en route to the final but faced a tough test in the form of No. 3 seed Noppawan Lertcheewakarn (THA), a member of the ITF/Grand Slam Touring Team. Robson defeated top seed Melanie Oudin (USA) in round two and ninth seed Bojana Jovanovski (SRB) in the quarterfinals and appeared unfazed by the attention she attracted from the world's media.

In front of a capacity crowd and with millions watching on television, Robson raced to a 3-0 lead in the opening set and, despite subsequently exchanging breaks, held on to claim the first set. Lertcheewakarn levelled the match after a nervous second set but Robson gathered herself together and dominated the decider to claim her maiden Grand Slam title with a 63 36 61 victory. "You kind of dream about it, and then you never really expect it to happen, so I'm still in a bit of a shock state," said Robson.

Ninth seed Dimitrov overcame another ITF/Grand Slam Touring Team member, Finland's Henri Kontinen, in the boys' final. The Bulgarian was in imperious form as he negotiated his way past Kontinen's attacking serve and volley game to lift the trophy without dropping a set. Having overcome third seed Cesar Ramirez (MEX) in the quarterfinals and promising Serb Filip Krajinovic in the semifinals, Dimitrov got a vital break at the end of the opening set, then held on to a lead in the second to win 75 63, despite carrying an injury for which he needed on-court treatment. "I had the two breakpoints, when I was 5-4, he did unbelievable shots and I was, like, okay, I mean, this guy can play well. I'm just proud of myself that I could fight the whole match," explained Dimitrov.

In the boys' doubles final Chinese Taipei pair Tsung-Hua Yang and Cheng-Peng Hsieh overcame Australians Matt Reid and Bernard Tomic 46 62 12-10 in an epic encounter, while Australian Jess Moore and Slovenian Polona Hercog were crowned girls' doubles champions following a 63 16 62 win over Australians Isabella Holland and Sally Peers.

Dutch duo retains Wimbledon wheelchair title

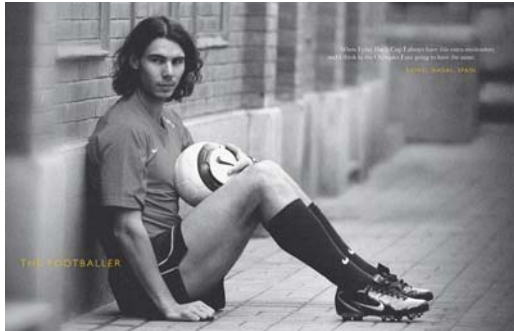

Robin Ammerlaan and Ronald Vink (NED) successfully retained their Wimbledon Wheelchair Doubles Masters Series title when they came from a set down to beat second seeds Stephane Houdet and Nicolas Peifer (FRA) 67(6) 61 63.

The Dutch duo moved to a 3-0 lead in the opening set before Houdet and Peifer hit back, with the French pair producing some deft drop shots. Ammerlaan and Vink had a set point at 5-4, but the first set went to a tiebreak, with the Dutch pairing again having the early opportunities as they opened up a 4-2 lead. The defending champions had their second set point at 6-5 in the tiebreak, but once again Houdet and Peifer hit back and converted their first set point at 7-6.

Houdet and Peifer's level visibly dropped in the second set, as Ammerlaan and Vink opened up another 3-0 lead en route to comfortably levelling the match. In the final set Ammerlaan and Vink retrieved an early break and then broke twice more before Ammerlaan served for the match at 5-3, hitting a huge forehand on the first match point that Houdet was unable to return.

Both the winners and runners-up had their trophies and medals presented by Peter Bretherton, a member of the Committee of Management for The Championships. In its fourth successive year, the Wimbledon Doubles Masters Series, an event sanctioned by the ITF as part of the global NEC Wheelchair Tennis Tour, boasted a record total prize money of £14,000.

'Journey to Beijing' enjoys successful launch

The ITF launched its official Olympic Book 'Journey to Beijing' at last week's Wimbledon Championships. Over 40 of the world's leading tennis players took part in the ITF project to help promote the 2008 Beijing Olympic Tennis Event.

The 140-page publication features a series of specially commissioned photographs of the game's top names dressed as athletes from other summer or winter Olympic sports. These are accompanied by interviews with the players talking about their Olympic memories and hopes for Beijing.

Among the 44 players represented in the book are the new Wimbledon champion Rafael Nadal, who appears as a footballer on location in Shanghai, and beaten finalist Serena Williams, who demonstrates her ice skating abilities at home in Palm Beach.

Also included are the two current world number ones, Roger Federer, who poses as a fencer, and Ana Ivanovic, who is shown playing beach volleyball, both in Miami. Novak Djokovic takes advantage of Dubai's indoor ski slope, while Maria Sharapova tries rhythmic gymnastics in Los Angeles.

The players also give an insight into the part the Olympics has played in their lives, with a series of exclusive interviews looking at their childhood memories, previous Olympic appearances and ambitions for this summer's Games.

ITF President Francesco Ricci Bitti said: "I believe the book shows how proud current tennis players are to represent their countries in the Olympic Games as well as the importance the Olympics has played in their lives. In turn, we have witnessed the continued growth, not only of the Olympic Tennis Event, but also of the international reach of our sport since tennis returned to the Olympic Games in 1988."

Final qualifiers confirmed for World Junior Tennis Finals

Last weekend's final round of the 14 & under European Summer Cup determined the European qualifiers for the World Junior Tennis Finals in Prostějov, Czech Republic, on 4-9 August.

The boys' Copa del Sol and the girls' Europa Cup act as the qualifying round for Europe, with four nations in the boys and five in the girls events bidding to join the Czech Republic, who automatically qualified as hosts of the Finals.

In the boys' competition, France defeated Russia 2-1 in a rematch of last year's final in Valencia, Spain. Great Britain and Croatia also booked their ticket for the Finals.

The Europa Cup for girls took place for the first time in Loano, Italy, where the Ukrainian girls upset top seed Russia to win the competition. The three other girls' teams to qualify are Belgium, Great Britain and Serbia.

The European qualifying events (Borotra and Helvetie Cups) for the 16 & under Junior Davis Cup/Fed Cup by BNP Paribas Finals will take place in August.

A full list of the 32 teams from 23 nations that have qualified for the World Junior Tennis Finals can be found on www.itftennis.com/juniors

Success for ITF touring teams

Three teams, the ITF International team, Tennis Europe team and COSAT team, took part in a five-week tour of 16 & under tournaments in Italy and France.

ITF international team members Luksika Kumkhum (THA) and Carolina Betancourt (MEX) won the girls' doubles at the Torneo del Avvenire in Milan and Le Pontet in France, and reached the semifinals at two of the other events. Kumkhum also won the girls' singles at Le Pontet and reached the girls' doubles final in La Baule partnering Niriantsa Rasolomalala (MAD) losing to COSAT team members Fernanda Brito and Daniela Seguel from Chile. On the boys' side, Sang-Woo Noh (KOR) reached the semifinals in Milan and Le Pontet, whilst Seif El Sherbini (EGY) and Sami Ghorbel (TUN) lost in the boys' doubles final in the last tournament in Paris.

Prior to the first tournament the ITF International team and the Tennis Europe team participated in a training camp in Italy. The camp served to provide ITF Team coaches Radhika Kanitkar (IND) and Guillermo Stevens (MEX) with an opportunity to observe the players and coach them on various technical aspects of their game.

The COSAT team also enjoyed much success. The boys' doubles pairing of Andrea Collarini and Agustin Velotti from Argentina won in Milan and Paris and reached the finals in La Baule. Velotti also won the singles events in Montecatini and Milan while Collarini claimed the title in La Baule. Alongside their victory in La Baule, Brito and Seguel also secured the girls' doubles titles in Montecatini and reached the finals in Paris.

The Tennis Europe team saw Pavel Filin (BLR) win the boys' singles and with his teammate Cyprian Porumb (ROU) take the doubles title in Le Pontet. There was also success for the girls in Le Pontet with Ingrid Radu (ROU) reaching the girls' singles final, a feat she replicated in La Baule. Together with compatriot Cristina Dinu, Radu reached the girls' doubles final in Paris and the semifinals in Milan.

18 & Under team enjoys success

The ITF/Grand Slam International 18 & under Junior Team to Europe finished with a flourish at Wimbledon this year with two ITF team members, Noppawan Lertcheewakarn (THA) and Henri Kontinen (FIN) vying for the coveted girls' and boys' singles titles respectively.

In the girls' singles final, Lertcheewakarn faced 14-year-old Laura Robson from Great Britain in a close final which saw Robson take victory 63 36 61. Kontinen faced the fourth seed, Grigor Dimitrov from Bulgaria in the boys' singles final and despite playing some excellent tennis, was defeated in straight sets 63 75. Kontinen also proved himself to be a formidable doubles player, partnering Christopher Rungkat from Indonesia to clinch the boys' doubles titles at the Astrid Bowl, Junior Roland Garros and the International Junior Tennis Championships at Roehampton.

Other notable results include the two singles titles that Henrique Cunha won in Santa Croce and at the boys' invitational event at Queen's. Cunha also teamed up with Cesar Ramirez from Mexico to win the boys' doubles title in Milan.

Not to be outdone by the boys, Elena Bogdan from Romania also showed that she is one to watch in the future by reaching the girls' singles final at Roland Garros but was unable to overcome fellow compatriot Simona Halep (ROU) losing in three sets 64 67(3) 62.

The team had an impressive run throughout its eight-week tour with players vying for singles and doubles titles in seven out of the eight tournament finals on the tour, clinching a total of nine singles and doubles titles.

The team is financed by the Grand Slam Development Fund, providing players not only with the opportunity to take part in top level international competition but also the invaluable experience of travelling abroad as part of a team under the guidance of an ITF coach. This year, three ITF team coaches accompanied the team: Ivan Molina (COL), Frank Zlesak (CZE) and Roberta Burzagli (BRA).

IOC announce increased doping tests in Beijing

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) announced on 2 July that the anti-doping effort at the Beijing Summer Games will be more extensive than ever. More than 4,500 tests will be administered, 25 per cent more than were conducted in the 2004 Games in Athens and 90 per cent more than in Sydney in 2000.

“At the International Olympic Committee, we are at the forefront of the effort to eradicate doping,” said IOC President Jacques Rogge. “Most athletes compete honestly and fairly,” said Rogge. “They treasure the Olympic experience. We owe it to these athletes, who train so hard, to ensure the Games are as free of prohibited drugs as possible.”

During the period of 27 July through 24 August, the IOC, in cooperation with the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA) and Beijing Organising Committee of the Olympic Games (BOCOG), will test the competitors at any time and at any place. In a change of policy, athletes will be tested whether they are at an Olympic venue, the Olympic Village or a far-away training facility. All controls will be coordinated under the IOC, while WADA will conduct pre-competition controls during the Olympic period on Olympic athletes not in Olympic venues and BOCOG will conduct controls at the Olympic venues.
