The ITF will stage the largest-ever seniors World Team Championships in Antalya, Turkey starting on Sunday 12 October. A total of 323 teams from 34 countries is set to compete in 19 age categories from 35 and over to 80 and over at the Club Ali Bey resorts in Manavgat and Belek.

This ambitious project sees the ITF Seniors and Super-Seniors World Championships held in the same place at the same time for the first time since 1993, when numbers were much lower and many of the cup events were not yet in existence. National associations and seniors players overwhelmingly wanted to be a part of the event, with the result being that a record number of teams have entered. The previous highest number of teams competing across the two championships was 283.

Eight countries will defend titles at the World Team Championships, most notably USA, who won six cups last year. While they struggled in the younger age categories in 2007 they should start as favourites in several of the older age groups, and will have high hopes of reclaiming at least some of the four women's and two men's cups they won in the 50-80 categories last year.

In the past few years the younger age categories have been dominated by western Europe, with France, Spain and Italy all claiming titles. Spain swept the 35s last year but its men's Italia Cup team will have to do without two-time defending World Champion Juan Luis Rascon Lope this year. They have a more than capable replacement, however, in former top 100 ATP player Alex Lopez Moron.

Spain will also be looking to take home one of the trophies in the older age groups, with Jorge Camina Borda leading its Von Cramm Cup (men's 60) team. Camina Borda has dominated the circuit in recent years and was part of the team that won the Austria Cup (men's 55) four years ago.

France has been strong in the younger age groups over the past few years, claiming titles across various categories. They have also traditionally done well in the Alice Marble Cup (women's 60), having at least reached the final four times in the last six years, and should start as favourites this year with the addition of 2006 55 and over World Champion Nicole Hesse Cazaux to the team.

Australia, Great Britain and Germany are always strong in the older age categories, and this year looks like being no exception. The Jack Crawford Cup (men's 70) in particular looks like being an intriguing three-way clash between USA, who have been in the final for the last 13 years; Australia, who ended its four-year winning streak last year; and Germany, who fields the same team that won the Britannia Cup (men's 65) five years ago at the same venue.

The following week sees over 1000 competitors in action in the Seniors and Super-Seniors World Individual Championships. Results, reports and photos from both weeks will be posted daily on www.itftennis.com/seniors.

Venues confirmed for Fed Cup Zonal events

The ITF has confirmed the venues for the 2009 Fed Cup by BNP Paribas Zonal Group events.

The State Tennis Center in Burswood, Perth will host the Asia/Oceania Zone Group I & II competitions which take place the week commencing 2 February. It is the first time that Australia has hosted Group I and II zonal qualifiers and will serve as a huge incentive to local players Casey Dellacqua and Jessica Moore as Australia seeks to climb back into World Group II.

The Americas Zone Group I event will take place at the Uniprix Stadium in Canada, where the Rogers Cup is held, the week commencing 2 February. The Europe/Africa Zone Group I event will be staged at the Coral Tennis Club in Estonia, the Europe/Africa Zone Group II & III competition will be held in Malta, while the Dominican Republic will host the Americas Zone Group II event in April.

Four nations will qualify for the World Group II Play-offs (two from Europe/Africa Zone Group I, one from Asia/Oceania Zone Group I and one from Americas Zone Group I), where they will take on the four first round losers from World Group II. For further information visit www.fedcup.com. The round-robin events will take place at the following venues:
