Marat Safin boosted his hopes of earning one of the four remaining Tennis Masters Cup berths after claiming his fourth career ATP Masters Series shield in Madrid. The Russian moved above Tim Henman into sixth position, with just two weeks to go in the countdown to Houston. Safin is one of six players still with a chance of qualifying, with Henman, David Nalbandian and Andre Agassi all in action this week. The top seven players in the Race, plus eligible Grand Slam champions, automatically qualify for the eight-player 2004 Tennis Masters Cup in Houston on 13-21 November. The event is co-owned by the ITF, Grand Slams and ATP.

Camozzi Doubles Masters

Martin Legner (AUT) and Satoshi Saida (JPN) won the Camozzi Doubles Masters title for the second year in succession. They defeated Michael Jeremiasz (FRA) and Jayant Mistry (GBR) 61 36 63 in a repeat of last year's final.

Legner and Saida were the second pairing to defend their title after Sarah Hunter (CAN) and Peter Norfolk (GBR) won the quad event on Saturday. Hunter and Peter Norfolk defeated home favourites Giuseppe Polidori and Antonio Raffaele 61 63 in the final.

There were new champions in the women's competition with the youngest partnership winning the title. Nineteen-year-old Jiske Griffioen and 17-year-old Korie Homan (NED) defeated Brigitte Ameryckx (BEL) and Sharon Walraven (NED) 64 62 in the final.

2004 NEC Wheelchair Tennis Masters - Preview

The NEC Wheelchair Tennis Masters requires the world's elite to play at a consistently high level over a sustained period of time. The 2004 event is sure to provide as much sporting drama as in the NEC Masters' previous 10 years, with an array of Paralympic medallists lined up to contest the most prestigious annual singles title on the NEC Wheelchair Tennis Tour.

Men

New Paralympic champion Robin Ammerlaan (NED) is the top NEC Masters champion, with three titles to his name; 1999, 2000 and again last year. The rivalry between the Dutchman and 2002 NEC Masters champion David Hall (AUS) at the top of the world rankings has been at fever pitch all year, with Ammerlaan holding the advantage in head-to-heads in 2004, but Hall having the overall advantage.

In familiar surroundings and in front of his home crowd, Ammerlaan will take some beating, but despite, arguably, his best season to date the Dutchman has been beaten by two other players apart from Hall this year - Michael Jeremiasz (FRA) and Martin Legner (AUT). Both are a constant threat to the top two and if there is to be a new name added to the list of champions it could be the younger Frenchman. Meanwhile, 1996 champion Stephen Welch (USA) has risen back up the top 10 rankings this year and the Texan remains one of the most naturally gifted players the sport has seen.

In the last two NEC Masters, Satoshi Saida (JPN) has been involved in some close matches, including a three-set win over Hall a year ago. The Japanese No.1 should again be in the hunt for at least a place in the semifinals once again. While Tadeusz Kruszelnicki (POL) has become a regular in the NEC Masters field in recent years, Saida's younger compatriot Shingo Kunieda (JPN) has the potential to upset any of those ranked above him.

Women

After defending her Paralympic title in Athens in September, Esther Vergeer (NED) took a medical time-out, missing the recent US Open. However, if she is able to return in time for this year's NEC Masters, the World No.1 is bound to be a formidable force once again as she bids for a seventh consecutive NEC Masters title.

25 October 2004 Issue 43

In the absence of World No.2 Daniela Di Toro (AUS), the only player to have beaten Vergeer in the last four years, Vergeer's fellow Dutch players will once again be among her leading challengers. In the 2002 NEC Masters final, Sonja Peters (NED) came close to defeating Vergeer in a thrilling encounter that went to a final set tiebreak. Maaïke Smit (NED) remains the only other previous champion in the final line-up, while Jiske Griffioen and Korie Homan head a new generation of new Dutch stars.

Threats to the Dutch dominance come from Sakhorn Khantasiit (THA) and Florence Gravelier (FRA). Kanthasit made a sensational Masters debut last year, marking her first ever tournament in Europe by beating Peters and Smit in the preliminary round robin matches. Meanwhile, Gravelier has risen to new career heights this year and shook Vergeer with a stunning second set performance at the Swiss Open in August before losing in three. Britta Siegers (GER) will hope to cap another consistent year with a good NEC Masters debut.

Quads

After making its Paralympic debut in Athens, Quad wheelchair tennis ends an historic 2004 by making its NEC Masters debut, with the last three World No.1 Quad Singles players, Peter Norfolk (GBR), David Wagner (USA) and Mark Eccleston (GBR), among the entries.

Norfolk has dominated the Quad game since July 2003, but the Briton's unbeaten run of 10 successive tournaments came to an end earlier this month when he was beaten in two tiebreak sets in Atlanta by Wagner. While the rivalry between the two is set to continue at the Masters, both will have to watch out for Eccleston and Bas Van Erp (NED), the latter winning his first Super Series title at the British Open in July. Eccleston and Van Erp fought out a dour battle recently at the Athens Paralympics, where the Briton had earlier come through in three sets against Guiseppe Polidori (ITA). The Italian is another player who could be a threat if reproducing the form that has seen him win both the French and Livorno Open titles this year, while Monique De Beer (NED) will be keen to upstage her male counterparts in front of her home crowd.

Carrizosa appointment

Paraguayan Senator Dr Miguel Carrizosa Galiano, a member of the ITF Junior Committee for nine years and General Secretary of COSAT (Confederacion Sudamericana de Tenis), has been chosen as President of the Paraguayan National Congress for the period of 2004-2005.

ITF 14 & Under Caribbean Development Championships

This year's ITF 14 & Under Caribbean Development Championships took place on 18-23 October 2004 and were hosted by the Netherlands Antilles Tennis Association at the Racing Club of Curacao.

The event which is organised in collaboration with COTECC saw the following eight countries from the region take part in the Championships: Aruba, Barbados, Bermuda, Netherlands Antilles, St. Vincent & The Grenadines, Surinam, Trinidad & Tobago and United States Virgin Islands.

The event was run on a round robin basis on days one and two, progressing to the main event held over the following four days which used the feed-in consolation system ensuring that every player, win or lose, played a match every day.

Aruba put in a strong performance taking both singles titles. The winner of the boys' singles event was Jean Marc Arends whilst the girls' singles event saw Zoe Krhon taking the title.

Coaches and representatives of the NATF met with Gustavo Granitto, the ITF Development Officer for Central America & Caribbean, during the closing stages of the event to give their feedback on the Championships.

Gustavo commented: "We greatly appreciated the Netherlands Antilles Tennis Association's support in hosting this event and were pleased to note not only the level of competition, but also that the team from Trinidad and Tobago consisted entirely of players who were a result of their national Junior Development plan, which is supported by the ITF through the School Tennis Initiative and Performance Tennis Initiative programmes."

The number of certified International Referees in South America has more than doubled following the Level 3 Officiating School that was held in Buenos Aires on 21-24 October 2004.

The School was organised by ITF Officiating in co-operation with COSAT and the Argentina Tennis Association and was taught by Mike Morrissey (ITF Administrator of Officiating), Stefan Fransson (ITF Rules and Regulations Officer) and Paulo Pereira (ATP Supervisor).

All seven of the South American officials that attended as Referees passed the examinations on rules and procedures to gain their Silver Badge Referee certification. The ITF had given these seven officials the opportunity to work as Referee at ITF Pro Circuit events in the months before the School, to provide them with valuable experience in the procedures used for Men's and Women's professional events. The excellent results indicate that this practical on-event experience gave considerable benefit to the officials involved.

In addition, seven other officials passed the combination of written and oral examinations to be awarded their International certification, which is recognised by the ITF, Grand Slams, ATP and WTA Tour.

ITF/Olympic Solidarity Regional Coaches course in Uzbekistan

25 October 2004 Issue 43

An ITF/Olympic Solidarity Regional Level II Coaches Course for the Central Asian Region is currently taking place in Tashkent, Uzbekistan.

The course, which runs from 23 October to 4 November 2004, is being held by the Uzbekistan Tennis Federation (UTF) and has attracted 21 participants from the neighboring Central Asian Republics of Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan and Tajikistan. In the spirit of promoting coaches education, the UTF also accepted a candidate from Azerbaijan to attend the 12-day course. The ITF experts conducting the course are Suresh Menon, ITF Development Officer for Asia, Kawaljeet Singh of India and Viktor Ivancov from Lithuania, who is the translator for the course.

The participants will spend twelve days trying to master all aspects of advanced tennis, including technique, tactics, psychology, fitness training, coaching diagnosis and correction and communication.

The UTF and the National Olympic Committee of Uzbekistan (NOC) organized an opening ceremony, which was inaugurated by Rustam Qurbonov, President of the Uzbekistan NOC along with officials of the UTF and members of the press. Qurbonov was particularly impressed by the level of the participants attending this course, since it has attracted some of the most experienced coaches from the Central Asian region.

ITF Course Expert and Development Officer for Asia, Suresh Menon said in his welcome speech: "I am especially pleased to know that four of the participants are women. The ITF is always encouraging more women to get involved in coaches education and this is an important step for the development of the game".
