On court today:

- In Bologna, Belgium return to court today after a narrow defeat to Italy on Friday, with Brazil their opponents this afternoon. The Belgians impressed despite the loss to the hosts – and they remain in the hunt for a quarterfinal place. Brazil, who have suffered a pair of 1-2 defeats this week, can also still make it to the Final 8 – but they must win today and hope for a kind result in the tie between Italy and Netherlands on Sunday if they are to make their first appearance in the Davis Cup quarterfinals since 2001. Belgium have won all 4 of the nations' previous Davis Cup encounters, most recently a victory in the 2019 Qualifiers, and will be keen to maintain that winning record today.
- In Valencia, Czechia and France will contest their 18th Davis Cup meeting – and while neither team can advance to the Final 8 Knockout Stage this season after both fell to Australia and Spain earlier this week, there is still pride to play for, as well as Davis Cup Nations Ranking points, which could affect seedings in future draws. The French have won their last 3 Davis Cup ties against the Czechs – which has seen them move ahead in the rivalry, which they now lead 10-7. France managed to win one match against both Australia and Spain, while Czechia have to a 0-3 defeat against both teams this week.
- In Zhuhai, Germany and USA face off with top spot in Group C on the line. The Germans have been impressive in victories against Slovakia and Chile this week – and will hope to round off a perfect week before they head to Malaga in November for their first quarterfinal appearance since 2022. The Americans, meanwhile, have also looked strong in their 2 victories over the opening days here – and, like Germany, have secured a first quarterfinal berth since 2022. This will be the teams' 11th meeting in Davis Cup but their first since they met in the semifinals in 1991.
- In Manchester, last year's semifinalists Finland face Argentina knowing that they must win if they are to have any hope of returning to Malaga in November. The Finns have lost twice this week, but their doubles victory against Great Britain on Wednesday means that they still have a chance of finishing in the top 2 in the group. For Argentina, who recorded an excellent victory against the Brits on Friday, another win today will move them closer to a first Davis Cup quarterfinal appearance since 2019. The 2 nations have met twice before in Davis Cup and are tied at 1-1 in their rivalry – Finland won their most-recent encounter, a 3-1 triumph in last year's Qualifiers.
