

ATP/WTA RANKING POINTS

UPDATED 30.06.2020

ATP Ranking

The ATP is the governing body of the men's professional tennis - the ATP Tour and the ATP Challenger Tour. The ATP determines the rules for ATP tournaments and determines the points allocation for all men's professional events, including ITF World Tennis Tour Tournaments.

A player's ranking is based off their best 18 tournaments, but players should read the rules on how the rankings are calculated in the ATP Tour Rulebook. Prior. Please see table below.

WTA Ranking

The Women's Tennis Association ("WTA") is the governing body of the women's professional tennis.

The WTA determines the rules for WTA tournaments and determines the points allocation for all women's professional events, including ITF World Tennis Tour Tournaments.

A player's ranking for singles is based off their best 16 tournaments and best 11 tournaments for doubles, but players should read the rules on how the rankings are calculated in the WTA Tour Rulebook. To have a WTA ranking, players must have earned WTA ranking points from 3 tournaments or earned a total of 10 WTA ranking points.

Rankings Dates and Inclusion

ATP/WTA Rankings lists (in singles and doubles) are generally released each Monday, except rankings are not produced in the middle week of the four Grand Slams or the ATP and WTA events in Miami and Indian Wells. Points earned at ITF World Tennis Tour tournaments offering $15,000 and $25,000 in prize money are delayed a week (7 days) for inclusion in the rankings (i.e. the following Monday).

Rankings history

Men

ATP Rankings, singles only at first, were first issued on 23rd August 1973 and were extended to include doubles from 1st March 1976. Apart from determining who were the best players in the world they were issued so as to be used by the majority of major tournaments as a basis of deciding the acceptance of entries.

They were not weekly as they are now (except for non issues in the middle Slams or during the events in Miami and Indian Wells) until 1979 with there being the following number of issues in the early years (and not always on a Monday).

1973 - 7 issues

1974 - 11 issues

1975 - 13 issues

1976 - 23 issues

1977 - 34 issues

1978 - 40 issues

1979 - 43 issues

Year-end rankings initially were the last issue of a year, or the first one of the following year, until 1991 when ATP deemed "the year end" to be after their Singles & Doubles Championships, in mid/late November, so that they could print their media guide for the Australian Open in mid January.

In 2000 (discontinued in 2009 for singles only*) an additional ranking was initiated by the ATP. This was called the ATP Champions Race. All players start the year with zero points and began a calendar year race with the player accumulating the most points becoming the world number 1. This additional ranking was introduced in order to make things more understandable for the public and to ensure that the top players participated in the most prestigious tournaments.

* It is still being used for doubles because players change partners during the season and because doubles teams can be at different ranking levels, it is impossible to use the ATP Rankings on their own to determine who should qualify for the ATP Tour Finals. For that reason the ATP kept the Doubles Race.

Women

The first official WTA rankings appeared on 3rd November 1975 and were used to determine acceptance into tournaments.

Rankings became weekly from March 1990 (except during Grand Slams and the events in Indian Wells and Miami when new ranking releases were delayed until completion of these events).
