*Match in top half of the draw, originally scheduled for Monday

On court today...

- Two-time Wimbledon champion Rafael Nadal begins his campaign for a 3rd consecutive Grand Slam title in the 2nd match on Centre Court this afternoon, taking on Argentina's Francisco Cerundolo. Nadal is aiming to become the 6th man in history to win the first 3 Grand Slam tournaments of the season this fortnight – but more immediately, he is bidding to record his 306th Grand Slam match-win and equal Martina Navratilova in 4th place on the all-time list for most singles victories at the Grand Slams. Cerundolo, who is enjoying a breakthrough season, is bidding to record just his 2nd Tour-level match-win on grass – 2 weeks after recording his first Tour-level victory on grass against another Spaniard, Pedro Martinez, in the 1st round at Queen's.
- No. 4 seed Stefanos Tsitsipas arrives at Wimbledon in good form, having won his first grass court title at Mallorca on Saturday. Tsitsipas now takes on Swiss qualifier Alexander Ritschard in the 3rd match on No. 1 Court today, with the world No. 5 bidding to record his first victory at Wimbledon since 2018. Ritschard is making his Tour-level debut this afternoon – the former college tennis star has enjoyed strong form in recent weeks and broke the world's Top 200 for the first time earlier this month. Should he record an upset victory today, it will be the first time he has defeated a player ranked inside the Top 100 on his 5th attempt.
- This year's Wimbledon men's singles draw has provided 3 meetings between Brits and Australians – and 2 take place today, with No. 28 seed Daniel Evans playing Aussie qualifier Jason Kubler on No. 2 Court and British wild card Paul Jubb up against Nick Kyrgios on No. 3 Court. Home favourite Andy Murray recorded a victory over Australia's James Duckworth here on Monday evening, but Australian men still lead their British counterparts 50-28 in previous meetings between the 2 nations in the singles at Wimbledon in the Open Era. Aussies also lead 97-83 in previous Grand Slam men's singles meetings between the 2 nations in the Open Era.
